

Enable cross channel in-store execution via Store Commerce Activation

In today's world of high expectations, retail stores play an even greater role in customer satisfaction and brand fulfillment. Today's consumer expects to shop in the manner most convenient at the moment and have a consistent and satisfying experience regardless of which channel (online, catalog, retail store, etc.) they use. To provide this blended channel experience, retail stores must evolve to provide more advanced inventory and order fulfillment services.

Manhattan's Store Commerce Activation offers an easy-to-use solution, which can enable the retail store to increase inventory accuracy, acknowledge and accept order fulfillment requests, and execute order fulfillment directly in the store. Store associates can see and locate both on-hand and in-flight inventory at any point in the supply chain. Stores can track the status of their orders and proactively monitor unwanted disruptions in delivery.

Manhattan's Store Commerce Activation allows you to transform the retail store from an end-point in the supply chain to a fully functional "node" in the supply chain.

As more retailers view stores as a node on the supply chain, rather than the end of it, store operations teams also need solutions to easily enable store-level parcel execution. Store Commerce Activation is fully integrated with parcel carriers via a web service-based methodology, enabling you to instantly shop shipping rates. You can also create and track shipments and obtain proof of delivery information—all within one seamless user experience. And store managers can electronically confirm receipt.

Get the tools you need to enable the retail store

Store Commerce Activation provides powerful inventory management and order fulfillment capabilities packaged in an easy-to-use, mobile solution, which is perfect for the high turnover environments of most retail stores. Whether you're an associate managing inventory from a mobile handheld or a store manager monitoring key tasks, it also provides a framework to oversee the daily functions involved in today's multi-channel retail operations. With Store Commerce Activation, you can:

- Improve store inventory accuracy through scan-based receiving
- Reduce the labor required to perform routine inventory adjustments and cycle counts
- Enable blended channel fulfillment practices (buy online/pick up in store, buy online/fulfill from store, etc.)
- Capture orders in real time in the store to save the sale
- Execute and track parcel shipments
- Seamlessly execute order fulfillment requests from any order source
- Locate inventory both within the facility as well as at any point in the broader supply chain

Store Commerce Activation is just one more example of the innovative solutions facilitated by Manhattan Associates' Supply Chain Process Platform.
